OMPH Class of 2014

High School Attended: Lancaster Catholic (Class of 2018)

College Attending: High Point University, Majoring in Mathematics/Computer Science

Share with us some of the activities and events you've been a part of at LCHS and HPU:

“At LCHS, I played baseball for 4 years, and I was a volunteer for Mini-THON in an effort to raise money for children with childhood cancer. During college, I have volunteered for campus events such as Veteran’s Day celebrations and HPU Community Christmas. I am also a part of many intramural sports, including softball, kickball, volleyball, basketball, curling, and flag football. Lastly, a huge research project that I am currently working on, that has taught me many skills, is on the Math behind March Madness, which includes methods that help fill out brackets for the tournament.”

How did OMPH School prepare you for those activities?

“OMPH prepared me to be a good student, teaching me how to be disciplined. It is important to stay disciplined, sorting priorities and following through with responsibilities. Learning this skill at a young age sets your mind straight, understanding that goals can not be achieved if you do not stay disciplined. I have been able to grow more and more throughout high school and college, achieving accomplishments that I would never have been able to attain without the discipline and hard work from OMPH.”

Do you have a message to share with current OMPH students?

“Balance your life! Obviously, work hard to achieve your goals, but too many times we find ourselves drowning in work or school. Remember to give yourself time every day to do something that you love and that motivates you to get through the day. Also, leave time to be with friends and family because when you look back at elementary school, high school, and college, those are the memories you are going to look back at the most.”
